Any volunteers? No, thanks

Lots of NGO or no profit associations are based on volunteers

If you don't pay, you can't understand the difference between price and value

If you don't pay, you can't count on reliability

When the volunteer leaves the association

Everyone loses:

Loyalty

Trust in people

Knowhow

Opportunities

Services

If you need lots of volunteers for long time

It's not a oneshot need: it's a regular job

VALUE PROPOSITION

- Giving value to the investment in training in compliance with the new needs of the context
- Be more efficient and faster in defining what the territory needs
- Create “social” free lancers "outside" the classic schemes that are too slow to adapt
- Be economically sustainable
- Change the perspective with respect to the KPIs of learning, to move quickly from theory to applied practice
- Solve real problems quickly

WHY?

To change perspectives about money: no lots amounts of money, but only enough money to understand the real meaning of value

To change perspectives about measurement: not only money, but also services (but with value)

To change perspectives about aid: not charity but philanthropy

HOW?

Learning synoptically from 4 different certified roles:

- Project Manager
- Social Planner
- Ergonomist
- Project Service Designer

WHAT?

Solutions that people need because:

- They not always told their real and deep needs
- Their needs are so urgent as their willing to pay for them (in all manners)

The real important thing is: enter in empathy with people to allow them to talk clearly and without inhibition of any kind
